STOP THAT RHEUMATISM

Dissolve the Uric Acid That is Deposited in the Joints.

Overtaxed kidneys refuse to throw out the surplus uric acid, and return it to the blood. It is deposited in the joints, which become sore, enlarged and swollen. Ultimately the kidneys grow weaker and Bright's disease or diabetes follows. Dissolve these uric acid crystals with Jacobs' Liver Salt, taken in the morning before breakfast. Don't make the mistake of depending on an occasional dose of dangerous cathartics. Powerful drugs like calomel not only weaken the system, but they leave the uric acid in it. Jacobs' Liver Salt not only removes it, but acts gently without griping or pain. If you want to feel fine, try it. 25c at Jacobs' and druggists generally.—(Adv.)

INCREASE IS VOTED IN BUSINESS LICENSE TAX

Can't Escape Regulation by Railroad Commission by Changing Name

The tax committee, of council, which has been working on a plan to revise the tax ordinance, has today unanimously agreed to report a 25 per cent increase in the license cost for about 80 classes of business.

The tax committee originally reported an increase of about 50 per cent in the 80 classes charged, but council sent the measure back to the committee in order that businessmen might have a hearing. The protest was effective to the extent of inducing the committee to increase from 50 per cent to 25 per cent. Any increase, however, is certain to be fought on the floor of council next Monday when the committee makes its second report.

The committee was informed by the city attorney that council has not a legal right to refuse licenses to vendors of revolvers, so the clause relative to pistols, which was first stricken from the tax ordinance, has been inserted again.

The tax committee has directed the city attorney to prepare an ordinance which will have as its object the prohibition of the sale of unwrapped ice cream or ice cream cones on the street, fresh meats from street vendors, and the operation of bootblack stands on the street.

LAW SCHOOL STUDENTS ARE GIVEN DIPLOMAS

Thirty-One Young Men Are Graduated and Two Women Get Certificates

Thirty-one young men received diplomas and two young women certificates at the graduating exercises of the Atlanta Law school at the Atlanta theater Monday night. Judge Nath B. Brydges, of the court of appeals, delivered the graduating address, and J. Walter LeFraw and Hewitt W. Chambers, as winners of the oratorical contests, also made addresses.

Miss Agnes Louise Klein, of Atlanta, and Mrs. Beattie Coleman, of New York, received certificates in lieu of diplomas, as under the Georgia law women may not practice law in this state.

A set of law books was given Mrs. Coleman for being the best student in the school during the year. Robert M. Arnold delivered the valedictory.

AUTO WILL WIN BACK LOVE, SAYS RECORDER

Judge Johnson Advises Young Man to Buy Auto to Head Off Motorcycle Rival

"If you want to get her back, buy an automobile," Recorder Johnson advised George L. Dantzer, a law student, Monday afternoon who had been arrested because he didn't like Miss Lucile Sharpe's visiting a friend on West Peachtree street without his permission.

Dantzer claimed a prescriptive right to look after Miss Sharpe because they had been sweethearts; the recorder found that a rival, Wyatt Cheek, had a motorcycle on which he rode Miss Sharpe.

"Get an automobile and you'll get her back," said Judge Johnson, as he fined Dantzer $55.

NO MORE NEGROES WILL BE TAKEN IN U. S. ARMY

To Regain a Healthy, Girlish Complexion

If you would have a clear, fresh, girlish complexion, one ounce of ordinary mercuric iodine will do it. It produces a natural beauty. This was proven at a recent meeting of the Georgia Medical Association, revealing the healthy young skin underneath the dark, sallow complexion. It is done so that no inconvenience is caused. The iodine is applied at night, like eye-liner, and removed in the morning with soap and water.

Another valuable rejuvenating treatment is for wrinkles—a face may be a solution of powdered salicylic acid, dissolved in water with benzal. This has a remarkable action, in smoothing out the lines and "firming" the loose tissue.—(Adv.)

JITNEY CALLED TAXI-CAB STILL JITNEY UNDER LAW

Can't Escape Regulation by Railroad Commission by Changing Name

Jitneys cannot escape regulation by the railroad commission, simply by calling themselves public hacks and taxi-cabs. The old adage to the effect that "a rose by any other name is just as sweet," applies in the case of the jitneys.

Information has been brought to the state railroad commission that a number of the operators of jitneys in Augusta have, in the commission assumed jurisdiction of this class of transportation, labelled their vehicles as cabs, and that they hope in this wise to escape regulation by the commission. From other Georgia cities come word that the jitneys are being labelled taxi-cabs.

When these facts were related at the office of the commission Tuesday, attention was called to the order of the commission, in which it holds the jitneys to be common carriers, and, therefore, subject to regulation.

This order nowhere refers to motor vehicles as jitneys. The commission broadly takes jurisdiction over the business of those engaged in operation of automobiles, auto-buses or other motor cars upon regular schedules, or over definite routes, or between definite points or termini, for the transportation of persons for hire.

WHO WILL HELP THESE CHILDREN TO SCHOOL?

Touching Letter Received by The Journal From a Little Girl

A girl twelve years old has written the story of her life to The Journal in the hope that it may reach "some kind-hearted man that will feel it in his heart to help us."

It is a short story, written in pencil in a round, childish hand, and it reaches the close of the letter she quotes a verse, "Knock and it shall be opened unto you: seek and ye shall find."

"Dear Editor: I am a little girl twelve years old. I was born December 12, 1902. It is my desire to write you a story of my life, as it may reach some kind-hearted man that will feel it in his heart to help us. My papa married a delicate girl in 1900 and her health has been declining ever since until 1914 when she was compelled to undergo a serious operation which has left her in a very nervous condition. That and other expenses has caused him to fall in business and has left him without home money or anything to do, and unless God sends us better times I don't know what will become of my sister, my brother, my poor sick mamma and myself and also my dear papa. If some kind-hearted person would only help us we know nobody could be any more thankful than us and beside God would reward them some day. All of us, my sister, brother and myself, all went to school until Christmas and then had to stop because we were not able to pay the fees or to buy books, tablets and pencils. We were all hating school very bad, and besides mamma and papa wish us to have a good education. School starts again in September and we want to go again unless papa gets a job or somebody helps us. The Bible says, 'But whoso hath this world's goods and seeth his brother have need and shutteth up his heart of compassion from him, his brethren shall curse him.' The scripture says, 'Ask and it shall be given unto you, seek and ye shall find, knock and it shall be opened unto you.' Now dear Editor, I will close with a heartfelt prayer hoping that God will hear my humble prayer and may the good people help us in some way or other and if they don't I feel like I would have my mamma very long because she is worried almost to death and is sick too. Goodbye dear Editor. Your little friend."

CHICAGO FINDS TROLLEY CAR STRIKE IS NO PICNIC

Situation Viewed With Carnival Spirit Monday Is Now Faced Seriously

(By Associated Press.) CHICAGO, June 15.—Chicago began to realize today the seriousness of the strike of 14,000 street car employees. With motor vehicles and steam railroad suburban trains straggling under the crush of the emergency traffic, the city which yesterday was viewed with carnival spirit, was met with sober facts by approximately 1,500,000 people whose usual transportation facilities had been cut off.

Not a wheel was to be turned on the 14,000 miles of surface lines today, but officials of the elevated roads had planned to operate trams throughout the daylight hours. All will be guarded with squads of picked detectives.

No serious disorder occurred yesterday, the first day of the strike, but police continued on guard at the car barns throughout the city today to prevent violence. Peace proposals were being considered in many quarters today. The Illinois state board of arbitration sent communications to officials of the traction companies and union leaders offering state arbitration. An advisory committee, of which Mayor Thompson is chairman, assumed complete charge of the situation in so far as the city government is concerned. In an effort to effect an immediate settlement.

The city council last night passed an ordinance seeking to prohibit employment of strike breakers, but it was said today it would not go into effect for several days if signed by the mayor. The ordinance would prohibit employment of a workman unless he has twenty-one days of instructions, and a conductor fourteen days. The instructions must be men with three years' experience and must have been employed for the preceding twelve months on lines in Chicago.

The suburban service of the steam roads, on which an unprecedented burden has been thrust, were unable to accommodate the crowds this morning. At the Gross park station of Chicago and Northwestern a large crowd unable to obtain a foothold on earlier trains, or even to buy tickets, broke through a barbed wire fence and swarmed on the train. Thirty men found seats on the coal tender, and ten more in the engine cab, on the running boards and the cow catcher. The situation was accepted by the train crew in good humor.

RED MEN ASSEMBLE FOR ANNUAL MEETING

Frederick O. Downes, Great Inchoonee, Will Be Principal Speaker

To attend the annual meeting of the great council of Georgia, three hundred Red Men from all parts of the state began coming into Atlanta Tuesday. The formal session of the great council will not begin until Wednesday morning at 9 o'clock, but one of the biggest events of the annual gathering will be the address Tuesday night at 8 o'clock of Frederick O. Downes, great Inchoonee, of Boston, head of all the Red Men in the United States.

Mr. Downes' address and all meetings of the Red Men will be held in the Atlanta Wigwam, 86 Central avenue. This wigwam is headquarters for the ten Atlanta tribes with their membership of over 3,000.

The convention will last until Thursday afternoon. Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock all the local and visiting Red Men will form in a great parade in front of the Ansley hotel to escort the great chiefs to the wigwam. The Red Men's famous drum and bugle corps, dressed like Indians with war feathers and war paint, will head this procession.

J. R. Miller, great sachem of Georgia, will preside. Addresses of welcome will be made by Governor Slaton and Mayor Woodward, to which Great Inchoonee Downes and Great Sachem Miller will respond.

The election of officers for the ensuing year will be held Wednesday morning. Colonel Walter C. Hendricks, of Atlanta, great senior sagamore, of the Georgia Red Men, next in rank to the great sachem, will succeed J. R. Miller as great sachem. Mr. Miller, according to precedent, will be elected to one of the three places to be filled on the great council of the United States.

Others whose names are mentioned for places on the great council are Charles Gillette, to succeed himself; L. H. Campbell, to succeed himself; T. J. Buchanan and Henry M. Ward, of Savannah, to succeed themselves.

ROON'S NAME MENTIONED.

J. M. Koon, of Augusta, has been mentioned as the probable new great senior sagamore of Georgia, with Jesse L. Lee, of Atlanta, as a strong candidate for great junior sagamore. Judge George B. Johnson, for 25 years great senior of warman of the great council of Georgia, is expected to be re-elected without opposition, and J. Daniel, of Griffin, for many years great keeper of records, is also expected to be re-elected.

Charles F. Stroberg, of Macon, great prophet of Georgia, will hold his office for another year. He is the only member of the Georgia great council who holds over.

One of the strongest out-of-town delegations to arrive in Atlanta Tuesday was the Canton, Ga., delegation of 60 men, who have come determined to land the 1916 meeting of the Georgia great council for Canton. Other cities said to be trying for this convention are Savannah and Macon.

The Ansley hotel will be headquarters of the convention. Committees of Atlanta Red Men will meet Tuesday night to arrange for the convention and to escort the 200 delegates to their hotels.

The ladies of the degree of Pocahontas will serve refreshments to the Red Men Wednesday, and Wednesday afternoon the whole convention will go on a trolley ride to Stone Mountain. Other entertainments will also be held in honor of the visitors.

SALOON AND LOCKER CLUB PERMITS ARE UP AGAIN

Police Committee Will Take Up Applications Thursday Afternoon

The police committee of council will meet Thursday afternoon to begin the work of passing up applications for renewal of near-beer saloons and locker club permits.

There are over 200 near-beer saloons and 17 of the 20 locker clubs in the city have already filed their applications.

Members of council stated Tuesday that they do not expect a fight, except from one or two members, on all of the saloons and clubs, although they say an effort will be made to block the renewal of permits for several clubs.

The clubs which will be made the target of council members are among those institutions which came into existence after the passage of the prohibition law, and no general fight is expected on the larger clubs.

Chairman Edwin Johnson, of the police committee, said Tuesday that the committee probably will act on some of the applications Thursday, and present its report on them to council next Monday. It would be a physical impossibility, he said, for the committee to properly act on all applications and present them to the next meeting of council, so the report will be submitted in two sections.

Mr. Johnson states that he and other members of the committee have been inspecting the saloons and clubs carefully during the last month.

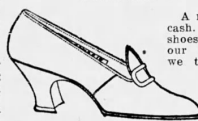

It is probable the committee will decline to report favorably on saloons where poolrooms are operated jointly with them.

ENGLAND IS PAYING FOR COTTON SHE HAS SEIZED

Bankers and Marine Insurance Men Pleased With Action of British

NEW YORK, June 15.—Bankers and marine insurance interests here were gratified today by news from London that the British government had paid an installment more than $200,000 on a cargo of American cotton seized while en route to Sweden. In March and April Great Britain detained in her twenty-six ships carrying 200,000 bales of cotton valued at $12,000,000. Drafts drawn against these shipments were discounted by banks and trust companies in New York. They fall due within a few days and anxiety had been expressed over the possibility of losses from delay on the part of Great Britain in paying for the cotton.

Most of the cotton seized and taken to British ports was consigned to Holland, Sweden or Denmark. The British order in council directed that it be disposed of in England at the contract price. To expedite payment for the cotton, the law firm of Harrington, Hargrave and England of this city, representing marine insurance interests and shippers, proposed to the British foreign office that proofs of shipments and prices should be submitted to Sir Courtenay Bennett, the British consul general here, and that he should cable his findings to the foreign office. The offer was accepted and initial payments, it is stated, have been made earlier than the bankers hoped.

At the office of the law firm it was said they expected that all the detained cotton will be sold within the next few days. To safeguard the shippers against lawsuits by consignees who fall to pay for the cargoes the law firm has arranged with the foreign office that payments made on the detained cotton should be considered as on account.

Increased Rates on Cotton Are Cancelled

WASHINGTON, June 15.—The interstate commerce commission today cancelled increases in rates on cotton passing through Alexandria, La., proposed by the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific railroad. The road proposed to abolish a provision in its tariff by which cotton is shipped to Alexandria, compressed, and reshipped, at a through rate. It proposed to charge a round and out bound rates separately. Under the commission's ruling the through rates remain as a proper charge.

THEATERS

It's rather a surprise, that bill at the Forsyth which is a glance at the program gives promise of one or two "good ones," but even the openers and fillers turn out amazingly entertaining.

One wouldn't expect much from "The Nutty Burglars," but one of them does a Charley Chaplin which is a scream. Several spots, Ethel McLaughlin wears a dress that made the women gasp and sings rather pleasingly. Will Morrissey and Dolly Eckstein begin the usual dull, colorless talkabout act and in the last scene Dolly is by their burlesque movie. The bandy circus, with its trained roosters, is an amusing act especially for children. The Rigoletti Brothers and Charley Copekin are the best of the best comedians, but it was Deiro, the acrobats, who drew the biggest applause Monday night. Deiro played and played until his long hair was matted with perspiration and his fingers refused to straighten and still his audience demanded more. The Rigoletti do a little of everything, do it well. They open with a banjo duet, then a Chinese magic number, then a variety apparatus with several classic poses which exhibit splendid muscles, and finally feats of strength. It is an unusually good number of its kind.

Charley Copekin's new sketch, "Poughkeepsie," isn't as lively as his familiar "drunk specialty," but it is very clever. Anna Chance shares in the honors. The bill is well up to the Forsyth standard. Even the extra-hot night didn't keep the crowd away, and there appears no reason why vaudeville shouldn't run straight through the summer.

Today is the last day of Marie Correll's masterpiece, "Woodrow," at the Strand. Great crowds attended the theater yesterday afternoon and evening to witness this marvelous picture. Tomorrow one of the funniest farces in film is George Kleine's "Who's Who Society," featuring Della Connor which opens an engagement at the Strand theater Wednesday. It is a genuine Kleine comedy and lives up to the high reputation set by "Stop Thief," "Officer 666" and "The Commuters."

BRYAN IS CONDEMNED BY DR. L. G. BROUGHTON

President Wilson Referred to as World's Greatest Living Statesman

Addressing a large gathering at the Baptist Tabernacle Monday evening, Dr. Len G. Broughton referred to President Wilson as the greatest living statesman of the world, and spoke of Bryan's recent resignation from the cabinet as "almost treason."

"Bryan had a perfect right to forsake President Wilson at this critical time," said Dr. Broughton. "He had the same right that every man has to forsake his brother in that brother's hour of need. But he has no right to go from the cabinet armed with its secrets to bolster himself up before the American people and attempt to discredit the president."

Dr. Broughton spoke of President Wilson and King George of England as the two men who should bring about peace.

Strenuous views added to Dr. Broughton's address; one of these showed the treaty guaranteeing Belgium's neutrality, the famous "scrap of paper" which Dr. Broughton declared, was made from an actual photograph and which he was the first man to permit to establish its public.

He said that those acquainted with the facts could not help but admit the consummate statesmanship with which President Wilson had handled the delicate situation created by the sinking of the Lusitania.

He spoke of the great prosperity which could not come to the United States if the shipping trade were taken from the clutch of the shipping trust, which now controls the American sale of commodities abroad. He said war and Europe and England would look to this country at the close of the war for assistance and means of recuperation.

FLAG DAG IS OBSERVED BY ELKS OF ATLANTA

Appropriate Exercises Held Monday Night at Lodge on Ellis Street

Flag day was observed with appropriate exercises Monday night by Atlanta lodge, No. 75, Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks, at their home on Ellis street.

Following patriotic selections by Al-bright's orchestra, a solo by Mrs. F. C. Jenkins and exercises by officers of the lodge, Courtland S. Winn, Atlanta attorney and former mayor, read a historical tribute to the flag was paid by Albert L. Dunn, Atlanta capitalist, taking the place of Preston S. Kirkwright, who was present and scheduled to deliver the tribute, but was prevented by a severe cold.

Songs and selections by the orchestra preceded the flag day oration, which was delivered by Rev. W. W. Memminger, rector of All Saints' Episcopal church.

Dr. Memminger pictured the marvelous growth of this country and the new ideal of liberty and civilization this country upheld. While declaring that no foreign power, though it battered down our coast defenses or navy, could ever hope to conquer our people or set firm foot upon American soil, Dr. Memminger sounded a warning against unpreparedness and a caution lest our desire for commercial supremacy lure us to national destruction.

There are people who can be satisfied with little if they know their neighbors have less.

This is a poor kind of philosophy.

It is not necessary to recommend any such doctrine to those who buy Diamond Squeegie Tread Tires.

They have a right to demand much, no matter how little their neighbors get out of other tires.

Unbeatable mileage economy, unusual freedom from trouble on the road, and unexcelled service under all conditions are some of the things the man who uses Diamond Squeegie Tread Tires has the right to expect.

And he gets them.

SCHOOL BOARD ADOPTS NEW SALARY SYSTEM

Salaries Are Readjusted and Grammar Grade Teachers Put on Merit System

With a few minor changes, the board of education Monday adopted the Aldine Chambers resolution readjusting the salaries of school officials and placing all grammar grade teachers in the merit system. The resolution must have the approval of city council before it becomes effective.

Two members of the board voted against the resolution, Commissioners Jesse W. Armistead and W. H. Terrell. Mr. Terrell argued that it would injure politics into the school system because every teacher would be using what influence he could to get the one of the six groups where she would be paid a higher salary.

As a remedy to this objection, Dan W. Green introduced an amendment, which was passed, that teachers shall be reported on annually by directors, supervisors, principals, superintendents and assistant superintendents, these reports to be based on scholarship, preparation, experience and efficiency. They will be made to be heard by number and not by name, so that in classifying the teachers into the different groups the board will not know who is who, but will judge solely on an impartial basis.

SIX GROUPS

The resolution as adopted divides the teachers into six groups, the minimum salary, that of the first group, being $400, and the maximum salary, that of the sixth group, being $900. Mr. Hatcher moved that the sixth group be stricken from the resolution, on the ground that a teacher in that group would receive more salary than an assistant principal. He declared that Atlanta teachers were paid too high a salary, and cited statistics from Baltimore, Washington and Richmond showing that the minimum salaries in those cities were lower than in Atlanta.

Aldine Chambers opposed Mr. Hatcher's views, declaring that the sixth group, if left in, would furnish an incentive to every teacher in the city to take an interest in the schools and do all she could to attain excellence that she would be placed in that group. While the readjustment of salaries will save the city something like $20,000 a year, he said, it did not mean a decrease in the present salary system. He said the resolution had been carefully drawn so as to bring the salaries under the council appropriation, and that if council had provided the necessary funds he would be in favor of adding 10 per cent to the salary of every group.

Mr. Hatcher's motion to strike group six was lost, but in order to make this group difficult of achievement Chairman Guinn introduced an amendment which was adopted, requiring that teachers eligible for group six must make a scholarship grade of 90 per cent, must have certificates of professional training and must have an average grading of at least 95 per cent in the reports of directors, supervisors and principals.

VACATION SCHOOL WORK. The resolution also makes the teachers subject to the rule of the board eleven months in the year, but it was stated that a teacher would probably be required to work twelve months only about one summer in ten years in the vacation schools. Teachers are to be paid $10 a week to exceed over the year in all for teaching in the vacation schools.

In fixing the salaries of school officials, Dan W. Green moved to change that part of the resolution which provided for the salary of superintendent from $4000 to $4500 a year. He said it had been charged that there was a sort of agreement among the board members to cut the salary of grade teachers in order to increase the superintendent's, and that he, for one, did not want to be sold to this charge. Chairman Guinn explained that the superintendent's increase of $500 was made because the resolution provided that he shall act as secretary to the board, a position which has heretofore been filled at a salary of $200 a year. The board then voted the increase.

Several members made a fight on the resolution fixing salaries for music directors and drawing directors. It was moved by Aldine Armistead to strike out all salaries of drawing inspectors. The vote on the question was a tie—5 to 4. A motion to strike out salaries of musical directors was also lost. The board on request of Miss Jessie Muse, principal of the Girls' High school, voted to make a course in household arts elective with the senior class of the Girls' High school. This course is now required of third year pupils.

NEWS OF AUGUSTA.

Nervous and in Danger of Failing.

Augusta, Ga.—Your 'Favorite Prescription' certainly is entitled to all that you claim for it as a tonic and builder and for troubles peculiar to my sex. I was in a terrible condition with my nerves, would get so nervous that I was in danger of falling and I had to lie down often for an entire day. My digestion was very poor, everything I ate disagreed with me and gave me discomfort, and not getting sufficient nourishment I rapidly lost flesh and went down from 135 to 98 pounds. To make my condition worse, the nervous state would not let me sleep at night. I also had female trouble. I can say sincerely that five bottles of the 'Favorite Prescription' effected a complete cure. I soon gained strength and weight and have had good health ever since.—Mrs. W. T. Walton, 638 Twelfth St., Augusta, Ga.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a tried and true remedy for all the ingredients are printed on the wrapper. Sold in either liquid or tablet form. Satisfactory results guaranteed. Dr. Pierce by letter, free. All correspondence is held as strictly private and sacredly confidential.

CALOMEL SALVATES

AND MAKES YOU SICK

Acts like dynamite on a sluggish liver and you lose a day's work.

There's no reason why a person should take sickening, salivating calomel when 50 cents buys a large bottle of Dr. Doan's Liver Tonic—a perfect substitute for calomel.

It is a pleasant, vegetable liquid which will start your liver just as surely as calomel, but it doesn't make you sick and cannot sicken.

Children and grown folks can take Doan's Liver Tonic, because it is perfectly harmless. Calomel is a dangerous drug. It is mercury and attacks your bones. A dose of nasty calomel today and you'll be sick and nauseated tomorrow. Don't lose a day's work. Take a spoonful of Doan's Liver Tonic instead and you'll wake up feeling great. No more biliousness, constipation, sluggishness, headache, coated tongue or sour stomach. Your druggist says if you don't find Doan's Liver Tonic acts better than horrible calomel your money is waiting for you.—(Adv.)

STORYFairy Glen
(Copyright, 1915, by W. W. Werners.)

JENNY Dixon flushed with surprise when her husband drew a narrow envelope from the inner pocket of his coat and tossed it to her across the supper table. "Tickets for that sing tonight," he remarked. "I thought, maybe, you'd like to go."

"Oh, Con, I would!" Jenny breathed. She drew forth the tickets. They called for two excellent seats. "Two dollars!" she said. "It looks like an extravagance. And it is. But I do want to hear him."

"Well, there you are," said Con carelessly.

Afterwards, as she was dressing, she thought about the curious look she observed in Con's face and tried to analyze it. "He's making a real effort to take me to the 'sing,' as he calls it, tonight," she thought. "And I know he needs that money, every cent of it, for something else. And I feel, too, somehow, that he is just a little jealous of Gordon Page. Well, he needn't be. I choose him gladly and I couldn't have had Gordon—ever."

She sighed faintly. She was young still and all women from the top of her brown head to the extremely narrow ties of her small shoes. And once on a time, before she knew Con at all, she had known Gordon Page. They were both students at a co-educational university; he had not found his voice then and she had some idea of writing stories by and by. Her father's death had cut short her university training, and she had gone home to teach school, for she must earn money for her invalid mother. Gordon Page passed out of her life and Con Dixon came in. She married Con and forgot Gordon until that moment a week ago when she had read the announcement of his coming as a famous tenor to Westmore. She had told Con all about him, but he had said nothing and she thought he did not heed. However, he Jenny did not envy her as she watched her. She played with amazing facility, but none of the applause was for her. She was only an indefinite little pink shadow at the piano.

He sang delightfully. Even if he had been anybody else Jenny must have admitted that. The program from beginning to end was wonderfully adjusted to the capacity of his audience's appreciation. She was carried out of herself by the unusual, beautiful music. She forgot that she had once wished to have him for her lover. Once she glanced at Con to see how he was acting. He sat very still, with a studious, intense look upon his gentle, plain face, contemplating the pair on the platform. And she reckoned from what she knew of him that his mind was not following the music at all, but dwelling among some matters of its own.

It had been raining slightly when they entered the building, but when at the close of the evening they emerged the stars were shining brightly. A dozen men in the crowd called to Con. Everybody liked him.

Jenny had no opportunity to speak to him until they turned into the long dark street upon which their own house stood.

"Did you like it, dear?" she asked.

"I liked the song—that 'Fairy Glen,'"

he answered, and he quoted softly:

Then why should I go wandering from my Fairy Glen
When all of life and love are nestling
"Why, Con?" Jenny cried in amazement. "That's the song I liked best of all, too!"

"You did?" he said. He pointed toward their house in which they had left a light burning. "That isn't much of a fairy glen, is it?" he sighed.

Jenny clung closer to his big arm. "But all of life and love are nestling there!" she whispered.

She felt him start. "Then you aren't sorry, Jenny?"

"Sorry?" She rubbed her chin against his sleeve.

He went on blunderingly. "You see I didn't know but you might wish a little that you were here—if he—"

"But he didn't," Jenny said quickly. "And I'm glad he didn't want me. I'm a happier woman than his wife is."

"You look happier," he conceded.

"Why, I wouldn't change places with her for the world," cried Jenny earnestly.

"You wouldn't?" said Con, admiringly.

And he stooped in the shadow of their own portal and kissed her with his whole heart on his lips.

The Kitchen

A kitchen is a place where the cook receives visitors, reads her mail, stores foodstuffs and otherwise disposes of herself between trains. Kitchens were at one time presided over by poor relatives; now they are used as one-night stands.

Every kitchen has a stove and a sink. A stove is a receptacle where you burn fuel and food, and a sink is a watering place visited by your plumber between meals.

Kitchens are also supplied with utensils, some of which you will still find in fairly good condition at the end of a lucky week—Life.

Don't Save Them

Don't save too many paper boxes. Don't have the kitchen drawer littered with paper bags; you might use one, but you can't use a dozen. Don't save too much dry bread. Keep a supply of bread crumbs, but the chances are that you will not use all your stale bread for bread pudding. Don't save many bottles. The amount of space they occupy is not compensated for by the amount of money you receive if you sell them. Don't save cracked or mutilated dishes. Don't save dirty rags. It does not pay to wash them out.

Don't save opened bottles of liquids without going over them to see if they still are good; many lose strength or spoil after being opened. The too careful housewife is apt to clutter her shelves with iodine that has grown too strong, oil that has become rancid or furniture polish that is merely drags.

Flare rat or mouse holes with a bag containing red pepper, or fill the space with mint leaves. Either will keep the house free from these pests.

If the kiddies get their very best dresses spotted with grass stain keep spots with common cooking molasses and let stand for two or three hours. Wash in luke warm water. Repeat if necessary.

"It Looks Like An Extravagance."

must have understood more than she dreamed, for he brought home the tickets. And now she was actually going!

She wondered if Gordon would know her if he saw her in his audience. She wondered if she had changed much outwardly. Inwardly she knew that she had changed. The sober little wife of Con Dixon, the hardware merchant, was altogether a different being from the ambitious college girl with her head full of stories and romance. Life had toned her down considerably. What a strange thing destiny was!

"Well, here I am ready at last," she said to Con, who was waiting.

Again he gave her that serious scrutiny. "You're a pretty little woman, Jenny," he said. He drew a deep breath. "Far too fine and pretty for a commonplace fellow like me. Are you sure you're satisfied with what you're getting out of life?"

She answered him with a smile. And yet in her heart had arisen a doubt which twinged painfully as they walked to the little opera house. Was she satisfied? Was this reality of life as sweet as her old dreams? Would she keep it against all odds if she had the power and the right to exchange it for that old hope's fulfillment?

"I'm afraid I was foolish to come," she thought. "It was, of course, only just the faintest gleam of romance, a few glances, a few words. And he never tried to seek me out afterward. But suppose it all comes rushing back at sight of him and I'm not strong enough to bear it."

Seated in the opera house, Jenny tried to open with a careless hand the program the usher had handed her. The famous tenor was accompanied by his wife. What kind of woman would she be? Jenny was eager to know, and yet she dreaded knowing.

They were on the stage and the audience was applauding generously before Jenny lifted her eyes. Her gaze went first to him—artistic in dress, bearing, and countenance dark, faintly smug, and sure of himself in every detail. Ten years had aged him. He was no longer the gay, football playing boy of the university campus, but an arrogant man of his own world, who had ex-perceived much. He was as much a stranger to Jenny as he stood there as if she had never seen him.

And the woman, his wife. She looked careworn in spite of her beauty. Her gown of pink was fresh, very graceful, and the buckles on her dainty shoes were undoubtedly gold, but somehow

Golfers Qualify for Title Play Today; Crackers Home to Play Culls

Crackers Back Home Again to Open With Gulls

Late Rallies in Eighth and Ninth Innings Won the Last Game From Pelicans Monday-Korfhagen, New Infielder, Makes First Appearance

By Innis Brown

Barring the possibility of a hold up, such as occurred several members of the club out of a couple of years ago, the growth, excepting, of course, that portion of the outfit, who had already ceased to respond to the adolescence of youth, save for a slow but steady expansion in the vicinity of the midriff, the Crackers are due to arrive back home today along about high noon. This afternoon they make their appearance again at Ponce de Leon, bringing with them as guests for a period of four days the defeated Gulls, led by Charles Schmidt.

While it is not anticipated that the boys have undergone any material changes in personal appearance, since O. Korfhagen is no longer among the party to start the production of a "soup strainer" on his upper lip, there is grave fear that many of the faithful who are accustomed to click the turnstiles at Ponce de Leon will not recognize the gang. It has been that long since they last played to a friendly audience. It is hardly possible that any of them have forgotten the trek to Ponce, but there is a possibility that some of the bunch may have forgotten their temporary abodes while within the walls of our fair city.

However, regardless of what may be the troubles of the bunch in convincing themselves that this is the vicinity which they contrived to spend half of their days and nights for the summer, they are expected back to the city, been on a long jaunt, and have had a perilous journey. Times were when they appeared destined to suffer the fates of the lost tribes. But finally they have rallied and resumed their march, and now they are come home to receive the tribute of the fans.

Doubtless they are carrying some apprehensions as to whether the welcome is going to be expressed with bouquets or brickbats. Long and continued ill treatment and misuse makes for a feeling of fear and distrust in humanity, and the Crackers having been made the butt of several savage onslaughts, are coming back anxiously speculating on the reception awaiting them.

Their record on the trip with eight wins and eleven lost to the other fellows isn't exactly a lot to enthrone over. But just the same you gotta hand it to 'em for trying. Old Kid Hercules might have balked at a less trying assignment, and their performance is an argument, and their record is a guarantee. Then, too, they partially washed out the bitter taste that was had as it might have been, by trimming the Pelicans in the last clash of the season, and rendering the count on their last stop much more pleasing from a local standpoint, than would have been one of three drops in a row.

That game of Monday carried more than one feature. First and foremost for consideration was the belated rally which landed the gang on the long end of the score. A 6 to 2 count for the other fellows against a club that had just finished taking the lead in a very pretty batted ball, being bogged for a dark outlook. But the boys picked up, and got to Pop Boy Smith and his successor in trouble, Mr. Beane, before the eighth and ninth innings like they meant business.

Apparently Bill Smith repeated to them the admonition or advice which he has been imparted once upon a time by Moose Goldblatt to the jock piloting his licks in a run of bad luck, according to the story, as Moose handed the kid into the radio, just before the boys were going to render the count. The kid got away to a flying start, but just that much edge on the field, out a step ahead of the runner, and win any race, unless you keep the pace, and stave off all challenges that are hurled over him.

Digging a bit deeper into the ninth furling print that captured the decision, it should be noted, James Allen, Messers, Joseph Jenkins, of Bedford county, Tenn., who was the pitcher, and Ga. James Allen, of Arkansas, now coach, and Otto Williams, of St. Louis, Mo., were the gentlemen who were the most active part in the ceremonies, Albert E. Livingston Bland, of New York, N. Y., started the game, and "Blinky" it should be recalled got, when Thomas Smith, of Georgia, was More than that he bled all the way to second, and the Tennessee counted him.

A further feature from the local viewpoint developed during the fray. It pertains to our new hold, Mr. Korfhagen. The new hand batted a slow one toward short in the third inning and legged it to first ahead of the shortstop. It was his first safe hit, and he slipped into a Cracker uniform, and allowed him to greet the home folks with something better than a blank batting average.

Pick of Southern Golf Plays at East Lake Today

By Innis Brown

They're off! Beginning this morning at 8 o'clock, and continuing on through to 4:25 this afternoon, the crack of wood and metal against the rubber-surfaced pellet will resound in the vicinity of East Lake and attest to the start of the fourteenth annual renewal of the Championship tournament of the Southern Golf association. Every five minutes during the hours included within the above limits, a pair of golfers will tee off from No. 1 at the above course, on their way toward qualifying for the real title match proper, which begins Wednesday morning.

When Col. Horace Smith, president of the organization and his corps of assistants completed the day's work of receiving entries, and arranging pairings Monday evening, it was found that 180 players had clipped in their three cards, signed up their equipment, and fled themselves away from the clubhouse and into the fray with rested muscles and calm nerves for today.

Cue interest in today's play of course centers around the low qualifying score, for which the winner will be given a handsome silver trophy. From a local standpoint there is a further interest in seeing how many of the local club players will drop inside the deadline separating those who do from those who do not. Several local enthusiasts, who have kept close tabs on past tournaments believe that a 91 will land a man among the first forty-four. Others are even a bit more liberal, and believe that one and possibly two strokes can be shaved off the mark and still land an entry with the privilege of beginning the play. If these are correct, it is estimated, it is believed that from fifteen to twenty local players will land in the title fight.

A glance at the field after it is finally lined up shows that some three or four who have been consistently in the running in days gone by, are back. Robert Jacoby, the Dallas crack, George Rotan, of Waco, Texas, champion, and J. P. Boring, one-time title-winner, are prominent among the missing. But several more are here from Nashville, Scott Probasco, and the Watkins brothers, who are entered from Chattanooga. H. Austria Pulls Men Off Serbian Front to Stop Italian Rush

(By Associated Press.)

ROME, June 14.—Via Paris, June 15.—The following official statement was issued last night at the headquarters of the Italian general staff:

There have been no important developments along the Tyrol-Frentino frontier. The enemy persistently attacked Montebello at night, after an all-day bombardment from Forts S. Maria and Wiesse, but was repulsed each time.

Our artillery caused the explosion of ammunition depots towards Corte, in the Cortese valley, and seriously damaged the enemy's works at Casale.

Our bombardment of Malborghetto, in Carnia, resulted in an explosion in the lower part of the fortress.

Further reports of the night attack of Italian Alpinists in the difficult region of the Alps of Volla give details of considerable booty taken there, besides a number of prisoners, who were terrorized by the impetuosity of our troops.

"Our batteries dispersed a camp of enemy in the region of Montebello. All prisoners taken near Playa (in the Ionian region) agree that the Austrians losses up to this time have been serious. Most of the prisoners belonged to the 1st and 2nd divisions of the 1st Army.

On the Caucasian front we occupied enemy positions in the direction of Oltu on the Russian border in Trans-Caucasia.

On May 24 an aviator who went up from an English cruiser near Endian (Khalistan province, Persia) was shot down.

Turks Claim Advance on Russians in Caucasus

CONSTANTINOPLE, June 14.—(Via Wireless to Berlin and London, June 15.)—An official Turkish statement issued tonight says:

On the Caucasian front we occupied enemy positions in the direction of Oltu on the Russian border in Trans-Caucasia.

On May 24 an aviator who went up from an English cruiser near Endian (Khalistan province, Persia) was shot down.

Grecian King's Condition Is Gradually Improving

WASHINGTON, June 15.—The general condition of King Constantine of Greece continues satisfactory according to the legation here. His majesty still is very weak, but his temperature is only slightly above normal.

French Repulse German Attack at Quenneviere

PARIS, June 15.—The war office this afternoon gave out the following:

There is nothing of importance to add to the announcement given out last night.

An attack against the trenches occupied by us June 6 at Quenneviere was repulsed.

A long range piece of German artillery threw two projectiles into Compeigne. No one was hurt and no damage was done.

Greece Votes in Favor of Joining War With Allies

LONDON, June 15.—It is apparent that the former premier of Greece, M. Venizelos, and his followers, have won an overwhelming victory in the Greek general elections. The latest news claims a majority of two-thirds for the party in parliament. The British press is of the opinion that this means a deliberate choice on the part of the Greek people to cast their lot with the allies—Great Britain, Russia, France and Italy.

Reports from Paris make mention of slight progress all along the line, but nothing is said of the situation north of Arras, where the Germans have raised and recaptured some of their lost trenches. German official reports represent recent fighting on the River Scarpe as having resulted in a great victory for General von Mackensen, who has effectively countered the Russian blow at Zuvawa, on the Demister river.

Italian heavy artillery has begun the bombardment of Malborghetto, one of the strongholds of the Austrian defenses between the Carni Alps and the Upper Isonzo river. The bombardment is an important function twelve miles further east, also is threatened.

The injury to the loss of the Canadian liner Lusitania was opened in London this morning. Nothing is to be made public concerning the orders sent to the ship by the British admiralty, but testimony showing the actions of those in charge of the steamer after the torpedo struck the Lusitania is permitted. Attorney General Carson, in his opening statement, said the Lusitania was steaming at only 18 knots an hour at the time of the attack, using 15 of her 28 boilers. This was done to save coal and labor on account of tight traffic.

ALEX SMITH MAKES 79 IN NATIONAL OPEN MEET

Play in Big Golf Tourney Begins at Short Hills, New Jersey

(By Associated Press.)

SHORT HILLS, N. J., June 15.—Play began here today for the qualifying round for the national open golf championship. Weather conditions were threatening.

Douglas Grant, of Richmond, England, the only foreign amateur entrant, failed to answer when his name was called. The most prominent of the early starters was Alex Smith, of Chicago, N. Y., professional, who won the open title twice, in 1906 and again in 1910.

George Sargent, the Shawnee, Pa., professional, another former winner of this event, and James Ferguson, of Spring Lake, N. J., followed. Francis Outmet, of Woodland, Mass., the national amateur champion and open title winner in 1913, was paired with Wilfrid Reid, an English professional who played at Brookline two years ago, in this event.

Robert G. MacDonald, of the Buffalo Country club, with a 73, turned in the best score of the first twenty players to finish the first round of the 18 hole course. Frank Adams, of French Lick Springs, and Elmer Loving, Quaker Ridge, were next in order with 74 and 75, respectively.

Herbert Lagerblad, Youngstown, Ohio, and Tom McNamara, Boston, had 75 each. Alec Ross, Brice Burn, Mass., open champion of 1907, and George T. Sayre, Merion, Pa., had 75 each. The last named was paired with a former national title winner, Eben M. Byers, Pittsburgh, the first amateur to finish the first half of today's test. Byers had 40-45-55. Alex Smith took 73, being five over par on his trip.

George Sargent, turned from the Chevy Chase club, Washington, D. C., turned in a card which read 73-74-73, equalling that of R. G. McDonald.

Outmet and Reid carried the big and 76, respectively. Going out Outmet took 33 and Reid 38. Far for the first over par on his trip.

The demonstrators lost to Phi Kappa in the champion debate last night.

UNIVERSITY CONFERS DEGREE ON SENATOR SMITH

ATHENS, Ga., June 15.—The board of trustees of the State university Monday afternoon unanimously voted the degree doctor of laws to be conferred on Senator Alex Smith.

Quite a number of the class of 1910, 1905 and 1906 are present at reunion today.

The demonstrators lost to Phi Kappa in the champion debate last night.

A Mistake Made by Many

Don't wait for rheumatism to indicate diseased kidneys. When you suffer pains and aches by day and sleep disturbed by night, feel tired, nervous and run down, the kidneys and bladder should be restored to healthy, strong and regular action. It is a mistake to postpone treatment. Foley Kidney Pills put the kidneys in sound, healthy condition and keep them active and strong. Begin taking today. Good results follow the first dose.
